

Forced Migration

*April 18th – April 22nd, 2011
Barcelona, Spain*

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The Forced Migration program is a week-long course for people with experience in humanitarian work and migration issues. This course prepares aid workers, government, military and other professions who are often faced with the need to provide assistance to migrants and refugees. The objectives of the course are to provide participants with the framework and fundamentals of migration, the legal tools, and the knowledge of its practical aspects. They should be able to refine and enrich their experience of the different techniques of forced migration and human trafficking in a combination of theoretical study and practical exercises. These will include workshops, specific case studies, inter-active role play, and by sharing their own experiences.

ASSIGNMENTS

CLASS ACTIVITIES:

- Participant Case Studies (6 total, 15 minutes each)

POST-SESSION ASSIGNMENT: FOR STUDENTS TAKING THIS CLASS FOR CREDIT ONLY!

Participants who are taking the Forced Migration course for academic credit must prepare a 4-6 page paper on forced migration, based on a specific case example they choose, either from literature or from their own work experience. The paper should be submitted to mail@cihc.org as well as laskowski.kasia@gmail.com, by or before May 22nd, 2011, for full credit. Students interested in completing this assignment should inform the instructors on their intention prior to the end of the course.
